

I'm Fine, But You Appear to Be Sinking

by LEYNA KROW

Featherproof Books is real, real excited to announce Leyna Krow's debut short story collection, I'm Fine, But You Appear to Be Sinking (February 2017).

In I'm Fine, But You Appear to Be Sinking, the strange collides with the mundane: close to home and far from it, in suburban neighborhoods and rural communities, with cycling apocalypses and backyard tigers. Each story stands alone, but they are connected through reoccurring imagery and a shared theme of protagonists in emotional peril. At its core, this collection is imbued with mystery, oddity, humor, and empathy, but what it really wants to show us is that we're never really alone—most especially when we're certain that we are.

Leyna Krow's stories range far and wide—from outer space to the ocean depths to the distant future—but they are bound by a crackling wit, an inventive vitality, a laser eye for the silent currents between people, and a sneaky emotional power. I'm Fine But You Appear to be Sinking is a wildly imagined debut, a blast of fleet power.
